Missing Probe Figure Made $2,805,000 Gains

G Men May Be Called by Lobby Investigators To Find H C Hopson of Associated Gas

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON July 29—Still unable to find H C Hopson dominant figure in the Associated Gas Electric system the senate lobby committee today received testimony that he had taken profits of $2 805 000 during the depression while many of the dividends were being passed

Officials of the system told the committee they were trying to locate Hopson and hoped to soon

Committee investigators have been trying to find him for 10 days The department of justice may be asked to take a hand in the search

Testimony on his profits was given by S C Ross accountant for the New York state utility investigation Schwellenbach Democrat of Washington placed in the record a statement that between 1924 and 1929 Hopson got half of a profit of $1 35[illegible] 000 on one of the companies in which he had invested only $45 000

Ross testified the operating companies had paid about $8 000 000 during the depression years to Hopson's companies for services

He presented much testimony of the private companies charging several times what the services cost them

They charged two and half times what they paid their men he said with one exception

It was through this system Ross said that Hopson controlled the system

Many of the officers of the private companies drawing big salaries from the men were also elected officials of the holding and operating companies he said

It is a fair inference Ross added that the primary allegiance of these men was to the companies from which they received their income rather than to the stockholders who elected them officials of the operating and holding companies

STEEL INGOT OUTPUT CONTINUES TO RISE

Observers Believe General Expansion in Production Now Under Way

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND O July 29—Steel ingot production continued its steady upward climb last week convincing observers that the low point for the year has been passed

The magazine Steel said today a general expansion in steel demand now appears to be under way with few consuming industries failing to show some measure of improvement

Despite the fact automobile parts plants neared their slack period the national rate last week went to 45 per cent a gain of two points over the previous week Scrap prices advanced again also shooting the magazine's scrap composite up to $11.25

Users are anticipating requirements for larger tonnages and further ahead the magazine said Steelmakers themselves are increasing stocks of raw steel

Automobile assemblies for the week held practically unchanged at 83 000 units In the Pittsburgh district steelworks operations advanced three points to 41 per cent Cleveland seven to 48 Youngstown three to 49 New England was down four to 32 and others unchanged The iron and steel price composite compiled by the magazine rose 13 points to $32 50 due to advances in scrap

BURGLARS LOOT FOUR PLACES

Two Residences and Two Business Establishments Broken Into

LITTLE PROPERTY TAKEN

One House Ransacked for Second Time Within a Week

Burglary of two residences and two business establishments was reported to police over the week end For one residence it was the second burglary within a week

At the residence of Mrs Alice Highland of 077 Curve street police said the burglars had gained their entrance by cutting a screen and forcing a door The burglary which occurred Saturday night netted the thieves a camera a white gold watch and a 32 caliber revolver

The home of Mr and Mrs R B Grubaugh who live on the corner of State street and Belle[illegible] avenue was entered between 7 30 and 9 Saturday night Mrs Grubaugh told police It was the second time the house was broken into last week Tuesday night the thieves took $1 50 in cash Nothing was taken Saturday night as far as Mrs Grubaugh could learn

The Marion Water Co office at 19[illegible] East Center street was entered early Sunday morning but nothing had been reported missing The burglars had apparently made their entrance down a coal chute Police Chief E C Macken said

The Home Baking Co at 314 Windsor street operated by J W Miller was the last of the four places to be entered The bake shop was entered Saturday night and a small amount of money was taken from the cash register Chief Macken said the thieves made their entrance through a window

Federal Officials To Fly Over Proposed Conservancy District

SET FOR TOMORROW

Regarded as Important Step in Plans for Project

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O July 29—An airplane survey will be made tomorrow of the Scioto-Sandusky conservancy district in conjunction with an effort to obtain federal approval of the $40 000 000 project

In the survey party will be Benedict Crowell of Cleveland regional director of the national emergency council W A Martin of Upper Sandusky president of the board of directors and Louis W Adams of Columbus attorney for the district

Adams said he would pick up Crowell at the Cleveland airport at 10 a m with the state owned plane They will pick up Martin later at Upper Sandusky

The party plans to have luncheon at Columbus with Gov Davey at noon and discuss state cooperative phases in connection with the project The governor has assured both federal and conservancy district officials that the state would cooperate Crowell Adams said will remain in Columbus until Wednesday for a general conference with representatives of various federal and state agencies that may be interested in the project and with conservancy officials

Adams said the air survey will include all of the 10 proposed dam sites as well as the general topography of the land to be included in the district Crowell is particularly interested in the feasibility of the project and its effectiveness in flood control and water conservation Crowell's recommendations may carry considerable weight with federal officials in deciding whether the government will participate

Marion and four other Central counties are located in the conservancy district which embraces 17 counties extending from Sandusky to the north to Portsmouth on the south These counties Marion Delaware Hardin Wyandot and Crawford will be included in the aerial survey One of the reservoirs planned would be between Marion and Upper Sandusky

ANNOUNCE TERMS OF NEW TAX RICH PLAN

Would Hit Incomes as Low as $50 000 and Get 3 4 of Those Over $5 000,000

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON July 29—Proposed new tax rates tapping incomes as low as $50 000 and taking away three quarters of that portion of an income over $5 000 000 were made public today by the house ways and means committee

The new schedule has been tentatively approved by committee Democrats who previously had agreed not to levy additional taxes on incomes under $150 000 and to apply the maximum 75 per cent rate only to income over $10 000 000

At present the tax on a $50 000 income is $9 500 The proposed new schedule would make it $9 560

The present levy on $1 000 000 000 however is $573 000 whereas the new tax would amount to $641 000

The proposed new individual income tax schedule was made public as Chairman Doughton Democrat of North Carolina called the first meeting of the full committee to consider the bill drafted to carry out President Roosevelt's idea of wealth distribution

The measure tentatively approved by committee Democrats puts new taxes on inheritance and gifts in addition to those already imposed on estates and gifts steps up the levies on corporation profits and assesses corporations from 12½ to 14½ per cent on their net income

TRAFFIC CASE HERE STUDIED

Marion Officials Meet Today With Highway Engineers in Columbus

DISCUSS ROUTE CHANGES

Turner Recommends Substitution of Parallel Parking for Angle System

F W Turner state highway division engineer urged a delegation of Marion officials and business men today to seek a method of reducing traffic congestion on state routes running through the city rather than have the location of routes No 15 and No 4 changed as has been proposed according to an Associated Press dispatch

Turner recommended that the city stop angle parking along the routes and order side parking to clear the pavement I believe this will be better to relieve the congestion than changing the routes and directing traffic from the business section and depriving merchants of potential trade he said

The division engineer promised a highway department survey of conditions as soon as side parking has been given a fair trial Council last week voted to table the side question after hearing arguments for and against the proposition by city officials and representatives of Marion business men

Mr Turner recently conducted a public hearing in municipal court room here to seek public opinion regarding the proposed highway changes Highway director John J Jaster Jr said he had not yet received a report from Turner on the proposal

U. S. SILENT TO PLEA FOR ACTION IN REICH

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON July 29—The A F of L leadership's demand that the United States take appropriate action to halt what President William Green called fiendish persecution in Germany brought no immediate comment in official circles today

In view of past attitudes however it was not generally believed the American government would take action It was recalled that senate leaders predicted last week that another move directed at the German situation—the resolution of Sen King Democrat of Utah calling for an investigation of Nazi treatment of Jews and Catholics—would be pigeonholed because of state department opposition

Green in a statement last night accused Hitler of being a tyrant."

GREAT BRITAIN KEEPS WORLD TENNIS TITLE

WIMBLEDON Eng July 29—England won the coveted Davis Cup emblematic of the world's tennis supremacy—for the third straight time today when the new doubles combination of George Patrick Hughes and C R D Tuckey defeated the American pair of Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn 6-2 1-6 6-8 6-3 6-3 in the challenge round doubles match The victory gave England the necessary third win in the five match series

The Britons victory was the final crushing blow to America's hopes of recapturing the cup lost to France in 1927 The first blow was delivered Saturday when H W (Bunny) Austin pulled out a five set victory over Allison in a singles match in which the veteran Texan was favored.

HOCKING VALLEY HIT BY RAGING TORRENT

300 HOMELESS AND ONE DEAD

Damage Estimates Range Upward from $1 000 000 Many Injured

DOWNPOUR BRINGS FLOOD

Residents Fear Disaster Even Worse Than Catastrophe of 1913

By The Associated Press

LOGAN O July 29—Raging flood waters the worst in 22 years cut a path of destruction and left at least one dead in the Hocking valley today

Unofficial estimates of the damage ranged upward from $1 000 000

Three hundred persons were homeless in Lancaster 18 miles north of here where the surging waters swept away five houses and resulted in injury to at least a half dozen persons

Streams fed by a terrific rain storm yesterday continued to pour torrential waters into the Hocking river which washed through lowlands carrying livestock and small buildings on its crest

Families evacuated homes in low districts here and throughout the area southward as flood warnings went out

With the water rising at Lancaster at the rate of three quarters of a foot an hour today residents in this area feared a flood even worse than in 1913 the most severe in history

Grocer Drowned

At Rock Bridge seven miles north water flowed into houses and the river already was up to the 1913 peak

A short distance north of there a man identified by Sheriff Joe Larbeau as Claude Carpenter Lancaster grocer drowned after he and 30 other motorists were marooned on state route 3[illegible]

Hunt Hensel of Sugar Grove and Jack Ropp of Rock Bridge were taking him to higher ground in a rowboat when the swift current upset the craft Ropp held to the side of the boat and escaped Hensel was swept down stream but landed in the branches of a tree

Lancaster was hit first by the flood A wall of water five feet high descended on the city a few hours after 2¼ inches of rain fell throughout south central Ohio Streams already were swollen from 10 days of intermittent hard rains

Mr and Mrs William Johnson and their three children barely escaped from their home before it was crushed to pieces by the avalanche Police and firemen in canoes and rowboats reported rescuing more than 100 persons from houses

Damage Set at $200 000

Safety Director Adolph Raab estimated the damage at Lancaster at $200 000 Two main highway bridges and 28 other county road timber bridges were smashed out in Fairfield county

Vera Dietrich 18 narrowly escaped death at Lancaster when she was caught in the onrush of water Albert Kelly 16 jumped in and pulled her to the side of a building where Richard Byers swam to them with a rope

However Kelly lost his hold and the current carried him through the window of a house He was cut severely

Water covered the east and west sections of Lancaster but the business district on higher ground was not affected

Logan residents and business men near the river moved furniture and fixtures to upper floors This town was nearly isolated The flood cut off traffic to the east north and west State route 31 the main artery into southwestern Ohio was cut off in numerous places by water between here and Columbus

Crews Worked All Night

Highway crews worked throughout the night aiding motorists

So quickly did the water rise that residents in the flood area north of here were able to salvage but few belongings before fleeing to higher ground Nearly all of those forced to leave their homes at Lancaster lost household goods

A high wind accompanied the

"Buck" Newsom Captures Hearts of Senators' Fans

By International News Service

WASHINGTON July [illegible] Pink News [illegible]—tall dark and handsome [illegible] is seriously clowning himself [illegible] a fair way to supplant all [illegible] Washington's immortal fancy men [illegible] by the [illegible] Nick Altrock and Germany Schaefer in the hearts of the Senators baseball fans.

[illegible] when [illegible] fired and still [illegible] when he accepted [illegible] winter breezed [illegible] from St Louis [illegible] began wagging [illegible] on the diamond [illegible] boxing bouts and cement parks and so on [illegible] remained to wonder.

When Buck [illegible] and gamely hurled [illegible] seven more innings on the injured [illegible] after shutting out the then league leading White Sox in his initial start Washington [illegible] sympathy and admiration was [illegible] to the beetle browed warrior 100 per cent.

From a hospital bed of pain Buck informed his public he would be back in there [illegible] that apple in 25 days. This in the [illegible] of predictions [illegible] that he would be sidelined for six weeks.

Three weeks later Buck came back [illegible] limping. He absorbed a nine hitting shellacking from the Yankees. But he finished the ball game. All present voted him courageous. The vote would have been even more so if the fans [illegible] what Buck knew and [illegible] the writer the night before his return to the wars.

[illegible] there [illegible] he said and probably get one hell of a beating. The legs [illegible] anyway near what she should be but pitching ball on it is the quickest way back. [illegible] work the full nine regardless of what happens.

The writer expressed [illegible] regarding the wisdom of Buck's seemingly foolhardy and braggadocio act in insisting on [illegible] mound after his knee was shattered at the possible expense of permanent injury.

[illegible] drawled the elongated South Carolinian. But looky here. There was 9 500 people out there at Griffith stadium that day. That's a pile of people for a Washington ball crowd on a Tuesday and I [illegible] been sold here by St Louis. I just had to show em I [illegible] take it that [illegible].

Now that he's back in livery [illegible] or otherwise Buck is pleading for work constantly. He finished two games for faltering fellow slabsters in the week after his nine inning return appearance and on the sixth day went the route again. It was three against Detroit. [illegible] match the [illegible] He limited Hornsby's cohorts to seven blows and won his game.

He's writing his own ticket of work as [illegible] long as he's around. [illegible] Harris sees [illegible] anger [illegible] capable of [illegible]

[illegible] by the [illegible] as [illegible] lead the [illegible] in hitting.

Newsom [illegible] the week [illegible] keeps [illegible] that's that [illegible] he [illegible] be in there [illegible] longer than [illegible] hitting.

[illegible] Newsom [illegible] self-fabricated [illegible] through all his [illegible] he [illegible] good baseball.

COSTLY MISHAP

Trip to Europe Lost by "Trip" Over Hurdles.

By The Associated Press

SHAWNEE Okla Hitting a hurdle for the first time in actual competition cost Sam Allen of Oklahoma Baptist University a trip to Europe.

The "$1 000 mishap" occurred at the National A A U [illegible] championships in Lincoln Neb where Allen placed third in a 110 meter high hurdle heat as a result of tipping the third barrier and breaking his stride.

The Oklahoman thus failed to qualify for the finals and a chance to earn himself a berth on one of the American teams sent to Europe for exhibitions.

Allen set another precedent for himself that day by falling over the fourth obstacle in the shuttle hurdle relay an exhibition event.

Prior to the A A U meet Sam [illegible] had a perfect record for the season including victories over Percy Beard the world record holder and the collegian field.

COURT TAKES HAND IN VETERANS' CASE

Morrow County Board Ordered To Answer Mandamus Action

Special to The Star

MT GILEAD July 29—Judge P H Weiand Saturday gave the Morrow county commissioners until Tuesday July 30 to file an answer to the mandamus action started against them by the Morrow county soldiers relief commission

The soldiers commission the members of which are John Cochran of Marengo L A Ault of Mt Gilead and Roscoe Dennis of Cardington resorted to the court when the commissioners refused to appropriate more money for soldiers relief There were no checks sent out in July

When the commission set up their budget for this year they asked an appropriation of $4 000 This was cut to $2 000 by the county commissioners and when the $2 000 was exhausted no further appropriation was made

It is the contention of the soldiers relief commission that under the state law they can ask for any sum up to what would amount to a levy of one half mill on the total tax duplicate This would be $3 000 in Morrow county They also claim that the county commissioners have nothing to do with the manner or amount distributed except to make the appropriation as requested provided it is within the limit set by law

Judge P H Wieland set Saturday Aug 3 as the date for hearing the case The soldiers relief commission is represented by Attorney Benjamin Olds of Mt Gilead and at the request of the county commissioners the court has appointed Attorney T B Mateer to represent them

CHINA STICKS TO OLD RULE

Women Still Denied Equality Despite Many Modern Trends

By United Press

HONG KONG (UP)—Young China is [illegible] western [illegible] life [illegible] deep. The more [illegible] and the [illegible] disease of [illegible] as a heritage. [illegible] a [illegible] way to the [illegible] of the [illegible] of [illegible] the right of a husband [illegible] or a father [illegible]. The mother [illegible] her son by taking her own life.

Many young Chinese women are [illegible] reading in western ideas [illegible] and [illegible] they [illegible] western costume and speech—idioms and slang—but underneath few of them are so fundamentally changed or so far removed from the old at home to be completely comfortable in the new.

Though she is allowed many of the liberties of the west the [illegible] girl still must follow the traditional rule of duty to the men of her family. As a child she obeys her father; when she marries she gives up her own family for [illegible] and follows her husband; when he dies she follows her son who has the right to command her in any way he sees fit and she must observe the four womanly virtues which are:

1 Obey your parents-in-law with submissive filial devotion.

2 Respect your husband.

3 Foster harmony between the wives of your husband's brothers.

4 Instruct your children and grandchildren.

There is less cause for the men to adopt western ideas especially as regards their women and even the most modern of them still fail to give much status to a woman until she becomes the mother of a son. When a Chinese father is asked how many children he has he gives only the number of his boys. If he has no boys he replies that the gods have not favored him yet in this respect for he is without issue.

Fool the Gods

And because girls are so despised and useless small boys are often dressed as girls to deceive the gods and demons of disease and death. They wear silver collars and strings around their necks and anklets with charms and amulets attached to them. There are dozens of such children in the streets of Hong Kong today. Sometimes they even have padlocks to lock them to life, thus frustrating the [illegible] or evil spirits who may try to steal them away.

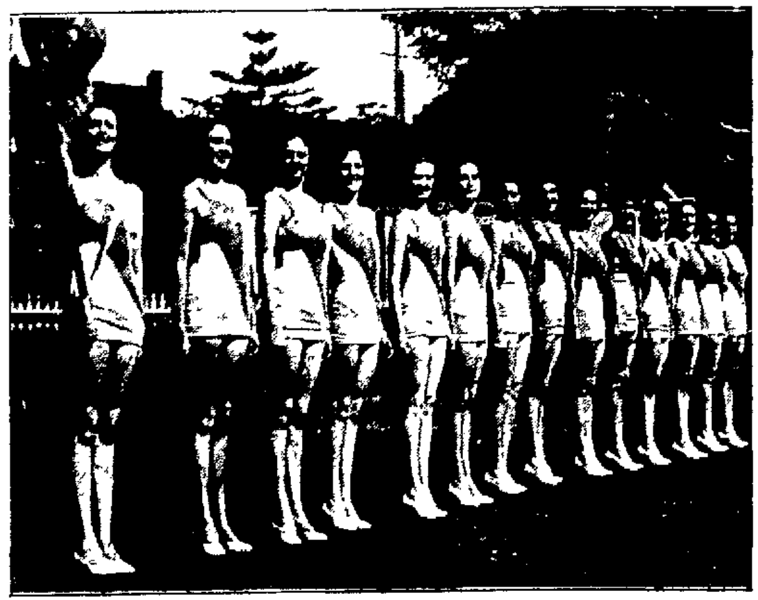
Mirrors are stitched into the fronts of baby hats so if a demon comes near and confronts the child he will see himself in the mirrors and be so horrified with his own ugliness he will flee in terror.

These are only a few of the ancient customs still being observed in 1935 and which to the less superficial observer are relatively sound proof.

A young Chinese woman gave birth to triplets, all girls and perfectly healthy. They were the first Chinese triplets on record for the hospital and were dismissed with the mother in normal time and with a clean bill of health. The following day the mother disappeared from her house and it was reported that she had sold the three babies for $5 each and had taken her lost face into a wilderness from which it would never emerge.

Had this mother been less blinded by instinct she might have reasoned that these three daughters after years of service to the men of her husband's family might have produced male offspring to blot out her shame. Yet she was a product of what is called Young China; she had chosen her own husband, had even been married in a registry office without benefit of the ceremonial red chair.

HERE'S WHERE THEY MAKE NEAR DROWNING A PLEASURE



Picked for their physical perfection these young ladies are regular life guards at Manly Beach, Sydney, Australia. And they're [illegible] mere [illegible]. They're credited with saving many lives. (Associated Press Photo)

DRINKS FOR FISH

Police Dump Liquor and Beverages Taken in Raids

Saturday afternoon a half holiday for many folks was an especially busy time for Police Desk Sergeant L F Reardon. Sergeant Reardon spent most of the afternoon dumping home brew beer, wine and liquor down the police department sink.

Statistically speaking the sergeant aided by Police Chief E C Mackan dumped 14 quarts of home brew, eight one gallon jugs of beer wine and 21 quarts of wine. Much of the home brew was under strong pressure and when opened the bottles exploded with a noise louder than most firecrackers.

The beer and wine was part of that seized in the police liquor raid Thursday July 18 when 14 were arrested and charged with sale or possession of intoxicating liquor.

AFRICAN YIELDS POINT TO ITALY

Selassie Will Not Insist That League Dig to Bottom of Ethiopian Dispute

(Copyright 1935 by The Associated Press)

GENEVA July 29—League of Nations circles said today Ethiopia made a major concession in its dispute with Italy by refraining from insistence that the council dig to the bottom of the controversy.

Emperor Haile Selassie in his latest communication to the league contented himself with getting back to the arbitration [illegible]. He asked at its session three days hence that the league council define the powers of the deadlocked conciliation commission.

Opposes Limitation

In answer to the Italian contention that the commission should restrict discussion to frontier incidents however Ethiopia demanded that no such limitation be imposed.

The King of Kings reserved the right to call for a council investigation of the entire African crisis under article 15 of the league covenant under which the council eventually would make recommendations for a settlement.

If the council approved such recommendations unanimously any nation defying them would be proclaimed an aggressor.

League sources interpreted Ethiopia's move in pointing the council meeting Wednesday toward a decision on the arbitrators' powers as a maneuver to put Premier Benito Mussolini in an awkward diplomatic position.

Won't Settle Dispute

Geneva realized that even a settlement of frontier incidents by arbitration would not necessarily liquidate the underlying problem created by Il Duce's reported ambition for a virtual protectorate over Ethiopia.

League representatives said postponement of council action would give England and France more time to seek a broad political compromise between Italy and Ethiopia.

Revolt Reported in Italian Colony

By The Associated Press

ADDIS ABABA July 29—It was reported without confirmation today that a number of native Somalis had rebelled in Italian Somaliland and had started for Ethiopia in the region of Ualual.

(It was at Ualual last December that both Italians and Ethiopians were slain in a frontier incident.)

Rumors were current that Ethiopian troops were headed for the frontier of Eritrea the Italian colony on the east but the war office did not confirm this statement.

The movement of troops created a profound impression on the population of the capital. The people cheered the soldiers vehemently.

Troops under the command of Dedjazmatch Haptemikael former cabinet minister came in from the Lake Rudolph area.

Martial preparations reached a high pitch as an Ethiopian army estimated at 10,000 arrived from Gamu province. They were outfitted with new rifles, modern khaki uniforms, machine guns and artillery. They departed in high spirits for an unannounced destination.

County Fair Premium List Ready for Distribution

Several Changes Made by Board in Planning Annual Exposition Set For Sept 10 to 13

The harness racing program has been condensed and now calls for Thursday and Friday races of the fair with four events each afternoon. Purses on each race range from $250 to $500.

The junior fair this year will have $1,000 for premiums and expenses as compared with $500 last year and the junior fair management has been placed in the hands of a junior fair board with adult advisers.

The poultry exhibits were thrown open to the state to get more exhibitors and to provide competition for professional poultry raisers. In Marion and adjoining counties who in the past were permitted to show while the remainder of the state was excluded. To foster exhibits from non-professional raisers in Marion county the board set up a separate exhibit similar to the one for the entire state and will permit only Marion county residents to make entries. No entry fee will be charged in the county exhibit. Another change in the poultry exhibit was the addition of premiums of $1 for the first and 60 cents for second prizes for five classes of bantams.

Due to the demand for such classes the board added premiums for Lincoln and Cheviot sheep this year raising the classifications of sheep for which premiums are offered to 10.

In the horse department, ... will be made in one of two classes instead of being grouped in one class as in previous years. Premiums are offered for teams ... are one to two years of age in one class while the other covers teams three years old and over. Previously teams were in competition ... the age range being from ... to ... years.

Oil paintings, china painting and ... work was eliminated from the fine arts department.

The fair board reduced from $2 to $1 the charge for trucks to pay ... a permit to make deliveries on the grounds.

Secretary Raub said 1,000 copies of the premium list have been ... and copies may be obtained at the county clerk's office above the ... court.

WELL-BALANCED BILL ON STAGE, SCREEN AT PALACE THEATER

An ideal midsummer night entertainment is to be found at the Palace today as "Paris in Spring" on the screen and the "Knot Hole Sailor Revue" on the stage conclude a two day run of splendid hot weather variety.

"Paris in Spring," starring the Metropolitan Opera company's Mary Ellis and with Tullio Carminati in a delightful concert of the title song "Paris in Spring" with a light mirthful comedy romance filtered in between the music. Other tunes in the picture are "Jealousy," "Why Do They Call It Gay Paree?" and "Bon Jour Mam'selle."

Tullio attempting to jump off the Eiffel tower in the opening scene is an indication of the light hearted theme of the picture. He doesn't jump but he does manage to fall into a thoroughly laughable situation.

The stage revue is variety to the nth degree. Headed by Comedy Sailor Pat Daly the personnel includes a rope-spinning western duo an all girl band a male quartet and several dancing groups. It is a well rounded show and is worth seeing. A newsreel and short complete the happy go-lucky bill.—C. H.

ANTHRACITE MINE CONTROL LAUDED

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 29—Charles F. Huber, administrator for the anthracite industry said today the industry's efforts at self regulation have brought quick and beneficial results.

Eighty five per cent of the anthracite industry is cooperating in the program to end unfair price discrimination, secret rebates and unfounded rumors, all of which lead to unsound merchandizing he said.

There seems to be a new spirit of hopefulness and a renewed desire to play ball throughout the major units of the industry.

OFFICIAL BEFRIENDS SETTERS, SPITTERS

Hoosier Commissioner Won't Allow Police To Drive Men Away

By International News Service

FORT WAYNE Ind — Court house setters who for years endured the hard stone of the steps now have comfortable benches upon which to park thanks to Paul Kinder president of the Allen county board of commissioners

Kinder recently witnessed police trying to drive the setters off the steps because it had been reported that one of the men accidently spat tobacco juice on a woman's dress as she passed up the steps to enter the courthouse

"No you don't" Kinder said as he walked up to the officer who was threatening to jail the men if they didn't move from the steps

"These boys have a right to have some place to sit and you're not going to chase them away" he added

"Well if it don't suit you I'll throw you in jail too" the officer informed Kinder

Just then someone advised the officer just who Kinder was and the officer backed down in confusion.

Kinder then talked with Police Chief George Eisenhut who told the board president of the complaint against the spitting activities of some of the setters"

The board president agrees that the men should not spit on the steps or sidewalk but advised the chief that he didn't think all the men should be deprived of their resting spots because of one man's actions

Now the upshot of the affair was that the board of commissioners purchased a dozen new benches and placed them along the walk by the steps with instructions to spitters

Ohio Boy Makes Good.

Ohio Democrats are supposed to be heartened by appointment of Charles West to be undersecretary of the Interior at a salary of $10,000 a year. Politics aside, the state is glad its right to political recognition in President Roosevelt's cabinet has been observed. To be sure, Mr. West has entered only the "little cabinet," but why split hairs? His star has been rising rapidly in the new deal constellation, so rapidly it might be guessed that it now exceeds in brilliancy that of Rexford G. Tugwell or even that of Raymond Moley, another Ohio boy who succeeded in being undersecretary of state for a time. Mr. West is still moving upward, while the other two gentlemen seem suspended in a stagnant area.

President Roosevelt is said to trust him implicitly. Mr. West is in harmonious accord with his chief on nearly all matters of importance. Though that didn't qualify him to Ohio Democrats as the logical candidate for senator, at least not with Honest Vic Donahey in the running, it has elevated him to the inner circle where Honest Vic still is a stranger. And their salaries are equal.

Some feared when Mr. West threw over a good chance to be a representative for a poor chance to be a senator he had gone gallivanting after a bird in the bush when he virtually had a bird in the hand. All that is history now. It is evident he knew what he was doing. The faith he had in the intentions of the statesman-makers was reciprocated and now he is more a statesman, both actually and potentially, than he could have been in a senatorial toga. Ohio, which is warmly proud of his rise in a strongly competitive field, expects to see and hear much of him next summer when he comes this way to practice his well advertised role of disciple.

Will 'n' Wiley.

Will Rogers, an airplane, a handful of unchewed chewing gum, Wiley Post and Russia fit together like five adjoining pieces in a jigsaw puzzle. Naturally, when Will, Wiley and the gum all got into a new plane built for a projected Russian trip, the thing seemed as good as done. The next stop surely would be Red Square.

But the gum, Wiley, Will and Wiley's wife arrived in New Mexico instead to fish—of all things. Well, fishing is next best to flying to Russia and a lot safer. Furthermore, it will be a lot easier for Will to scribble out his daily squib in New Mexico than it would be in Vladivostok.

It's just a hunch, but worth playing, maybe, that when Will Rogers takes off to fly to Russia the world won't have to wait on someone to figure out what happened. Will is a man of considerable connections—movies, newspapers, radio and things. Why, the chewing gum industry alone would know something was up if he started to lay in enough wax to ruminate with all the way across the continent and the Atlantic ocean. He's too big to disappear into thin air, even with Wiley.

The Trouble With Neutrality.

The department of state has been concerned ever since the World war about rules of neutrality. During the first part of the war, Great Britain out-maneuvered American statesmen so neatly they never were entirely sure what happened. They did know the neutrality of the United States was made a mockery by the fact American exports were not permitted to get to consignment points of the Central powers.

The trouble with neutrality is that commerce in war times is almost as integral a part of war as exchange of gunfire. In the World war, Great Britain realized its most effective weapon against Germany was blockade. In theory, it was all right for the United States to sell cotton to Germans, but because cotton can be used to make explosives as well as shirts the practice was all wrong.

The question of neutrality has been raised recently in connection with Italy's threatened invasion of Ethiopia. The new idea of maintaining neutrality is to preserve it by prohibiting exports to either side where it is impossible to trade equally with both sides. Obviously, that would be an unpopular and an impracticable rule if it ever were applied fully, but it is an honest attempt to solve the knotty problem of neutrality.

The state department, which is striving to keep congress from going off the deep end by passing half-baked neutrality laws, has pointed out that an arms embargo to protect American neutrality in event of hostility between Italy and Ethiopia might penalize Ethiopia and benefit Italy, because Ethiopia must buy munitions abroad. That means it might buy some of them in the United States. On the other hand, if the United States were to sell munitions to Ethiopia, Italy would be angry. Apparently, a country couldn't be neutral if it tried and few are interested in trying at their own expense.

Last Resort.

Gov. Davey's insistence that the Carey bond act, which permits counties to issue relief bonds against revenue from a 1 per cent public utilities excise tax, is adequate for financing of local relief, does not seem to satisfy all relief officials. They are doubtful of voters' willingness to authorize issuance of such bonds.

That is a point which only experience can determine. The Carey act may be considered as the state's last resort in the struggle to deal adequately with relief. In the meantime, distressed relief officials, deeply worried by what they do and do not know of the federal government's work relief plans, might be consoling themselves with one fact.

The federal government does not know, itself, what will come out of work relief. Its plans, announced one day as doctrine, are likely to be discarded the next day as bunk. It is feeling in the dark for a way out of a dilemma, bluffing its way when it isn't sure about the next step. Its threat to cut off direct relief by Sept. 1 must be taken with a grain of salt. Ohio is by no means the only state which rebels at the prospect, and Ohio is at least as well able to find a way out of the predicament as any other state. This state is not going to be singled out for drastic reorganization.

The Roosevelt administration has been given a huge appropriation for relief. Every state in the union is jealous of its share of the appropriation. Relatively few are prepared or willing to make suddenly the drastic reorganization of their relief systems which the federal government has threatened to force the states to make. As has been said so often in Washington, relief is a condition, not a theory. It's a reasonable guess that when the showdown comes, it will be dealt with on that basis, regardless of the half-formed theories which currently are driving relief officials to distraction.

Talk Is Free.

When Rep. Dickstein of New York had concluded a diatribe against Adolf Hitler during a session of the house last week, Rep. Patman of Texas leaped to his feet and demanded that the United States "mind its own business."

There are some puzzling implications in that demand whenever it is made. What did Rep. Patman really mean?

Certainly, he did not mean that Rep. Dickstein has no right to criticize Adolf Hitler because he is a congressman and Hitler is the chancellor of Germany.

Certainly he did not mean, either, that because Rep. Dickstein was criticizing Chancellor Hitler the United States was taking an official stand against the Nazi leader.

Rep. Patman probably meant that since there was nothing the United States or Rep. Dickstein could do about Germany the wisest course would be to keep still. In a way, that's pretty reasonable advice, but hasn't Rep. Patman, himself, spurned it on a good many occasions? If he hasn't, he is one of very few congressmen willing to keep still when there is a chance to make a speech in behalf of a worthy cause.

Neighborhood History

CURED BY "MEDICINE MAN"

Captain Pipe, Jr., son of old Captain Pipe who burned Colonel Crawford, was a familiar figure to early settlers of Wyandot county. He went west with his tribe and died on their reservation. He was never married.

Captain Pipe had the reputation of being a great "medicine man," and history records his curing from snakebite a child belonging to Reuben Drake, an early settler of Grand Prairie Town.

When called to go to the Drake home Pipe was somewhat under the influence of whiskey and refused to go. Being strongly urged he went to the home, looked at the child and exclaimed "great pain, very sick." He then stated he could do nothing for half an hour and laid down by the cradle, snored loudly for some time, then arose and called for milk. He then pounded some roots which he brought with him, poured the milk over them, gave the child a portion to drink, applied more of the concoction in the form of a poultice to the bitten place, then rocked the child some time in its cradle. The child fell into a slumber and soon began to perspire freely. Upon seeing this effect of his remedy, the captain said, "It get well." True enough the child recovered rapidly. Another child bitten at the same time, died.

Noel Coward, a London rumor says, is to make Bermuda his permanent base after scouring the globe for an ideal location to get away from it all and write. For a time he had his eyes on Hall Caine's rock castle along the coast of the Isle of Man. But surrendered finally to the pink coral, motorless charms of Bermuda. He plans, they say, to build a Tudor hacienda which will include an all glass minaret for his work shop. Coward is also reported chastened by the flop of his last realistic wench and brute drama and in the future will stick to the lacy sophistries and boudoir fluff of his earlier period.

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Wednesday, July 29, 1925

Wholesale arrests of rum runners and bootleggers, large and small, and at least one public official were expected as several U. S. marshals, supplied with arrest and search warrants, left Cleveland for a sweep through lake front cities.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Terpany of Waterloo, Ia., were guests of Mrs. Terpany's mother, Mrs. W. N. Porter, of Pearl street.

Mrs. John A. Abel and children of Wildwood court left for a month's visit in Salamanca, N. Y., Bradford, Pa., and other points in the East.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Curl of Pearl street left for a visit of 10 days in Philadelphia, where they were to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Judson Davids.

The Pleasant Farm Women's club held its annual guest day party at the home of Mrs. Dale Lawrence, south of Marion.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Thursday, July 29, 1915

Mrs. Charles Becker, whose husband, former New York City police lieutenant, was to be electrocuted Friday for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, went to Albany to make a final appeal to Gov. Whitman to spare her husband's life. Becker had been convicted of hiring four gunmen to kill Rosenthal because the latter had made revelations of a police alliance with gamblers.

The state department at Washington began preparation of a note to Germany requesting payment of damages for sinking of the American steamer Leelanaw by a German submarine.

Petitions for an amendment to the state constitution, fixing all county office terms at four years, were in circulation here and were reported to have 1,040 signatures.

Behind The News In

Washington And Wall Street

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 29—President Roosevelt has quietly started to revise his inner circle line-up. The biggest part of the job will not be completed until after congress quits, but you can see the first signs of it behind the assignment of Charles West as assistant secretary of interior.

It is an open secret at the White House that Mr. West's success as a liaison officer with congress was not outstanding. This is not a reflection on Mr. West. He is a good conciliator, but only with gentlemen and not with wolves. What the White House needed for that job was a lion-tamer. This function now is being served by Vice President Garner, even to the extent that Senate Floor Leader Robinson can be spared occasionally for a few speeches back home.

At the same time, there seemed to be need for a liaison officer between the White House and the interior department. Recent misunderstandings there have not been so conspicuous as those with congress, but are sufficiently important to engage Mr. West's talents.

Incidentally, Mr. West will be in line for the secretaryship if Mr. Ickes ever decides to take a judgeship.

Firm

A similar explanation lies behind the Virgin Islands shake-up. The White House did not care for the way things were going, decided to get rid of Gov. Pearson and Judge Wilson. The shakeup was arranged diplomatically so that everyone would save his face while losing his official head. Mr. Roosevelt even went to the extent of lifting a letter from what is now known as his "kiss of death," form letter A-1, expressing his deep appreciation of the services of those who must depart.

Incidentally, the Justice department was not as sorry as it pretended to be in making a place for Gov. Pearson on the parole board. Authorities there had long been hoping to make a place for someone on that board.

Discontent

If you will piece these incidents together and couple them with others like the recent transfer of capable Assistant Commerce Secretary Dickinson to the justice department, you will have a hint of changing inner conditions here within your plain sight.

President Roosevelt is reshuffling his jacks and queens. He has not come to the cabinet kings yet. In fact, there are evidences of disinclination to go into that situation very vigorously in the face of the very warm political situation which is developing.

But deeper than these things, it discloses a fundamental dissatisfaction at the top with the way things have been going, also a desire to revise and rebolster the new deal in the matter of personnel.

Preparations

Those closest to the securities and exchange commission keyhole noted some time ago that Chairman Kennedy was making a few personal preparations to get back to private business, probably in the fall. Lately they have seen some further activities along this line.

The President undoubtedly will try to get Kennedy to stay. He is now about the only conservative balance remaining in the official family. A higher and more interesting job may be offered him as bait.

Neighbors

Incidentally, Mrs. Morgenthau recently rented a house for the summer at Cape Cod. The treasury secretary got away last week-end to see the house for the first time. He liked it, inquired about the identity of the neighbor in the large house next door. It then developed for the first time that the next door neighbor was Joe Kennedy, the chairman of the SEC. Kennedy also was week-ending with his family.

"In that case," said Mr. Morgenthau, "I will go over and have dinner with him." And he did.

Preserves

A major Washington misunderstanding seems to have arisen around the fact that Mrs. Garner has gone home. A sharp-eyed newsman noted her disappearance and concluded that this indicated congress would not be long adjourning. The story spread far and wide.

The fact is the wife and secretary of the vice president departed for Uvalde about six weeks ago without getting her departure mentioned even in the society columns. And the reasons she went home were both considered far more important than congress: (1) her granddaughter had arranged to visit her, and (2), she had arranged to do her spring preserving and canning.

As a pre-eminent punster has pointed out, Mrs. Garner never permits congress to poach on her preserves.

NOTE—Nevertheless, early adjournment of congress is a far better bet than most of the congressmen yet know.

By JAMES McMULLIN

NEW YORK, July 29—The appointment of Mayor LaGuardia of New York City to a subcommittee which will determine what interest rates cities shall pay on public works loans points up the development of a political triangle that is worth noting. The mayor and President Roosevelt have been working more and more closely together recently. The third member of the triangle is Governor Lehman of New York. There isn't much love lost between him and the mayor—but they are pulling in unison under the inspiration of their mutual friend in the White House.

The private objective of this triumvirate is a complete reversal of the old political order in this state. New York City is to be encouraged to go Republican while the Democrats drive for upstate control. The reapportionment bill which Lehman favored and Tammany blocked at this year's session of the state legislature was intended to help the cause.

Political experts say the plan isn't nearly as fantastic as it sounds. The business and financial element in New York City is predominantly Republican. They have gotten along pretty well with Tammany on the whole—some of them very well—but by and large they would welcome the change and their local political influence is more important than it appears.

Results

Tammany still dreams of a return to the dear departed days of Dick Croker and Tom Platt—when the Tiger boss in the city and the GOP boss in the state worked together for the advantage of the right people. At the moment the boys are confidently biding their time to shove the reformers out and get back to the feed trough—as they always have done before.

That hope would go glimmering if the triumvirate can really put their program across. The projected realignment would have far-reaching political results—both local and national.

Consider a few of them. The old-time invisible Democratic government of this city would be busted to bits. Business here could save itself a lot of money if it didn't normally have to pay both direct and indirect tribute to the Tiger. LaGuardia's position would be greatly strengthened. The spearhead of opposition to Roosevelt within his own party would be blunted. The balance of political power in the state would come firmly under Roosevelt's control. And don't overlook what a difference this would make in the naming of a New York delegation to the Democratic national convention.

Shifts

Quite a hullabaloo has been raised about the transfer of listed securities from the smaller exchanges to the Big Board in New York since the securities commission inaugurated uniform listing requirements. To hear the calamity howlers talk, the little fellows will soon be forced to the wall.

Experts say this gloomy prophecy is so much applesauce. While a dozen or so issues have been transferred to the New York stock exchange since the beginning of the year there has been nothing like a rush to switch.

Nor will there be. Most of the companies listed on the out-of-town exchanges have no use for a New York market. What interest there is in them is pretty well localized. So the smaller markets scattered around the country really have very little to worry about.

Fancy

But this reassurance does not apply to the New York curb exchange. The corporations which have left the curb to sign up with its big brother are few in number—but in volume of trading they represent a substantial portion of the curb's business—which its member firms could hardly afford to lose.

But the curb's worst headache is still ahead. Roughly two-thirds of the stocks traded on its floor are unlisted. They must list and register with the securities exchange commission before July of next year or get off the exchange. It will be a terrible jolt to the curb if they choose the latter alternative.

A lot of them may. The chief reason they have unlisted now is because they don't want to file too many details about themselves. If denied this privacy on the curb they are likely to take refuge in the over-the-counter market. It will be a long time—if ever—before the securities exchange commission gets around to demanding registration statements from companies whose stocks are traded over-the-counter.

Modest

New York insiders have learned why the original draft of the social security bill called for such incredibly small appropriations for old-age pensions and why the figures had to be revised substantially upward. Those who doped out the original estimates simply forgot that anyone was going to be 70 tomorrow and proceeded on the basis that the youngest generation of workers now active would be the first to receive benefits. This minor miscalculation made a modest difference of a good many billion dollars.

OHIO IN THE CONGRESS OF GIANTS

To the Fifty-first congress, which has been referred to as a "congress of giants," Ohio contributed her share of really notable men. On the senate side she was represented by John Sherman and Henry B. Payne. On the house side there were among others, Ben Butterworth, and John A. Caldwell of Cincinnati, Henry L. Morey, Gen. R. P. Kennedy, Col. William C. Cooper, A. C. Thompson, J. H. Outhwaite, Theodore E. Burton, Charles H. Grosvenor, Joseph D. Taylor, Ezra B. Taylor and William McKinley.

From other states these notable men came to the senate in that congress: Edmunds and Morrill of Vermont; Hoar and Dawes of Massachusetts; Hale and Frye of Maine, Platt and Hawley of Connecticut; Aldrich of Rhode Island; Evarts of New York; Cullom of Illinois; Allison of Iowa; Quay and Cameron of Pennsylvania; Spooner of Wisconsin; Teller and Wolcott of Colorado; Ingalls and Plumb of Kansas, Stanford of California; Chandler and Blair of New Hampshire; Manderson of Nebraska; Beck and Blackburn of Kentucky; Gorman of Maryland; Gray of Delaware; Rockrell and West of Missouri; Voorhees of Indiana; Vance of North Carolina; Morgan and Pugh of Alabama and Coke and Reagan of Texas.

On the house side sat such men as Reed and Dingley of Maine; Burrows of Michigan; Cannon and Hitt of Illinois; Kelley and Dalzell of Pennsylvania; McKenna of California; Banks and Lodge of Massachusetts; LaFollette of Wisconsin; Carlisle and Breckenridge of Kentucky; Holman and Bynum of Indiana; Springer and [illegible] of Illinois; S. German Naval Writer Declares Aircraft Will Never Replace Cruisers

By International News Service

BERLIN Fast pursuit planes and heavy bombers will never blow big battleships out of the water nor so render modern dreadnoughts useless. They are powerful auxiliary weapons and nothing but that

That is how a German naval expert writing in the Berliner Borsenzeitung summarizing the German view in the controversy of battleship versus aerial armada. Since the Borsenzeitung is often used as the mouthpiece of the German war ministry special attention can be paid to the article which they may be considered as giving the official naval viewpoint of Germany at a time when Germany's naval plans are of prime interest in Europe

The writer who uses the nom de plume Hans Wiking builds up his arguments as follows

1 Three-quarters of the world's surface consists of water which means that for greater operations on sea the nations must rely on surface craft rather than aircraft unless planes are constructed that can overcome all difficulties in long range operations

2 The better the airplane the better and stronger will surface ships be protected against air attacks by improved armor and anti aircraft guns. This old rule has been valid as long as wars have been fought

3 Airplane carriers so-called operating bases of aircraft on the high seas are most vulnerable to enemy attack from both water and land. They are as a matter of fact most beautiful targets for good gunners and are easier to hit than fast moving and low built seacraft

4 Fast pursuit planes are all right for reconnoitering operations but have no fighting value against dreadnoughts

5 Heavy bombers and torpedo bombers have to descend very low to hit their targets and there is every probability that gunfire will bring them down before they do serious damage

6 Only a naval fleet of superior ships and guns can destroy another naval fleet

7 The importance of heavy planes is that they bring heavy weapons into action against an enemy fleet faster than the fleet itself but in major sea actions must necessarily play the role of auxiliary weapon

9 Airplanes are important for attacks on naval bases and for their defense in which capacity seems to lie most of their future usefulness

The article concludes by demanding fast and heavy planes for the navy commanded by the naval authorities

We cannot dispense with planes on the sea the article concludes but neither can we dispense with fine surface ships of high fighting qualities. You may tease the enemy with planes but you will never defeat him altogether "

Considering that Germany has given thorough consideration to the problem of how to give its small navy the greatest power this attitude on aircraft offense is of great significance to naval attaches here

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Tries To Remove Mary's Fear of Harm from Old Suitor, Jack Leslie

THERE WAS salutary self scorn in Mary's voice as she exclaimed over her long past folly in being attracted by Jack Leslie. But there was a bit of unconsciously egotistic self pity also in the words. And what a price I paid

I told myself grimly tasting the bitter tea of remembrance that it was not Mary who had paid a price for that old folly she had come out of the affair unscathed and it had brought into her life the adoring lad who was now her husband

But if she never had permitted herself to be lured into that mad escapade of dancing in the cabaret which featured Jack Leslie Grace Draper could not have had the opportunity to come into our apartment with no person guessing her presence there to compass the devilish purpose which ended in her suicide and confession but which cost Dicky and me many months of estrangement and which gave me the bitterest suffering I ever have known

Holds No Resentment

Worse than useless however to voice any hint of that thought now. She had been but a child during that period of folly. I never had felt any resentment toward her. I must not let a theatrical phrase upset me now

I schooled my voice to sympathetic accents. But I also imbued it with firmness as I answered her outburst

Yes dear it was a terrible experience. But it is over now and you must not dwell on it a second longer than necessary. Tell me the rest of this quickly for there are things I wish you to do

Began to Loath Him

The request for aid was purely a fictitious one but it served its purpose. Mary's fingers tightened on mine and her voice lost its tremulousness

There isn't much left she said. It wasn't very long before every bit of thrill for me went out of Jack's performance. I found out what he really was and the only emotions I felt for him were fear and loathing in equal proportions. But I could not get away nor could I conceal my aversion to him

When he found out my changed feeling she went on he was like an insane person I suppose at the same time he discovered what I hardly suspected myself—that I was becoming very much interested in Noel. Then he began a series of petty annoyances that nearly drove me out of my mind

And the most nerve racking of all was his constant reiteration of the song he's singing now. It was on his repertoire one of the favorite songs of his public. In the course of an evening he sang it, or snatches from it several times either as part of his regular program or as an encore

Sang It for Her

'Every time that he sang it he emphasized the words with diabolical cleverness just as he had done when he first sang the song and told me it was for me alone. And when we were off stage he snatched every opportunity for humming the tune so that I could hear it. I simply couldn't get away from him

The only good thing about it was that Noel never suspected that particular bit of torture Jack was inflicting upon me and I never have told him about it. I really had almost forgotten about it. And here it is again haunting me like a wraith. O! what shall I do?

Her story was over patently and the time had come [illegible] measures I stood up a[illegible] drew away m[illegible] hands [illegible]

Do you know w[illegible] call you Mary?" I d[illegible] apparent irrelevance

No what" she asked startled

A dead game [illegible] replied slow[illegible] and [illegible] Don't you think [illegible] opportunity for [illegible] ep that?

I felt like a surgeon [illegible] an operation w[illegible] saw the star led [illegible] But she needed no [illegible] the knife. There was a glint of steel in [illegible] tured eyes and she [illegible] right

Yes Auntie Madge said resolutely W[illegible] want of me first?

To steel yourself a[illegible] sound of that singing [illegible] promptly. Say to you[illegible] over. He cannot harm [illegible] powerless. Then [illegible] your preparations [illegible] as if Jack Leslie [illegible] other continent and [illegible] tain that you never w[illegible] again

She rose to her feet and [illegible] my arm

I can steel myself [illegible] song she said but [illegible] New Hampshire even [illegible] must find out whether [illegible] fiend has seen Noel [illegible] know he may have [illegible] hurt him terribly. I m[illegible] on the telephone at once

The Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND

BUSINESS GIRLS AS WIVES

Stupid girls are as rare in the business world and as hard to find as five-leaf clovers Most of the dumb ones have given up the struggle and promised to become some man's helpmate before getting well started

One reason why the most brilliant and intelligent girls are often the slowest to marry is because men always have confused presence of mind with absence of beauty and presence of character with absence of charm

There is something about stupidity especially when accompanied by youth or beauty or sweetness which convinces a man that he has found a prize yes woman It is not until a few months or years after the honeymoon that he discovers that the reason his darling agrees with everything he says is because she doesn't understand what he is talking about Then he either goes into the silence or starts looking around for a little mental companionship on the side

* * *

Another reason why the brightest girls sometimes are left longest among the unplucked flowers is because while a girl with a few working brain-cells is concentrating on her job her less ambitious sister is concentrating on the husband hunt The former sticks to her desk until her day's work is finished while the latter permits nothing to interfere with her dates or her beauty sleep Her idea of success in business is to find some man who will take her out of it

When I marry declares a wise young bachelor I hope that I shall find a girl who has made good at a job or a profession I know that Hitler and Mussolini would be pretty horrified at that And I know also that business success sometimes makes a girl independent and hard to please

But I want to be sure that I am getting a life companion who speaks my own language and can understand words of more than two syllables and above all who knows how hard it is to make a dollar

Besides I figure that any girl who has made good at an office job and managed to please a few bosses ought to be able to make good at running a house and pleasing one poor lone man

* * *

Moreover a girl with brains enough to succeed in business will usually concentrate on making a success of marriage She has been around men when they were not on dress parade and known what they are like when they have left their manners at home with their dinner-coats And she is not likely to expect to draw an angel in the marriage lottery

Most marital love dies of boredom because the average man insists on confusing stupidity with sweetness and dullness with a good disposition But women don't come that way They can be just as trying just as bossy and just as greedy or argumentative—or just as sweet and fair minded and unselfish—with or without intelligence But the one with brains won't bore you

READY MADE WIFE

BY CORALIE STANTON

(Copyright, 1935 Coralie Stanton)

SYNOPSIS

Laurie and Rex Moore have decided to give up their masquerade as man and wife [illegible] innocent purpose it is now a danger to them both Rex has left for the country to prepare to fly the Pacific Laurie continues to work for Mark Albery But she has given him a hint that perhaps some day she and Rex will be divorced And Albery has already told Laurie that he loves her

* * *

CHAPTER THIRTY FOUR

Safe Offer

"LAURIE" said Albery and a wave of heat came into his voice from the flame of desire that was consuming him You know I love you Don't pretend I am glad I can't tell you how glad I am You must break with him at once What's the good of waiting? Let him get on with his job I'll still be behind him for your sake But you mustn't work any more You must let me look after you

Oh thank you Mr Albery she faltered But I would much rather work I love my work I should hate to have nothing to do

You will have everything to do —what all women love to do especially when they are loved by a man as I love you You shall have everything in the world all the pretty clothes and jewels you want We will travel You shall have a villa in the South an apartment in Paris or Rome—where you like Whatever you want will be my joy to give you

She gazed at him in speechless amazement

Mr Albery are you asking me to marry you?

He gave her a look that baffled her It was so full of some suggestion that she could not grasp

My dear girl I'm not a marrying man But I will give you a position in which you will be honored and respected by everyone you meet

She gave a cry and sprang from her chair Before he could stop her she was at the door She clung to the handle and flung withering words at him her eyes blazing

How dare you insult me like that? I won't stay here another minute I'm going and I'm never coming back I'll never set foot in this building again

Her passion of outraged fury was exhausted She opened the door with difficulty white to the lips and went out of the room leaving Albery staring after her with uncomprehending but baffled and cruel and merciless eyes

* * *

But the next day about 5 o'clock in the afternoon Albery's car purred up to the little tumble-down house in Westminster where his ex secretary lived

It happened that the old and rheumatic landlady was standing at the front door having just parted from a visitor

Is Mrs Rex Moore at home? Albery asked her

Seeing a grand gentleman and a grand car and knowing that Mrs Moore had lately been mixed up with all sorts of people the landlady directed him upstairs

Right at the top sir You'll find Mrs Moore I'm afraid it's a bit of a climb

So it was that Albery came upon Laurie unexpected and unannounced, when, after knocking at the first door he found her in her pretty simple flowery sitting room

He saw that she had a letter in her hand and that she had been crying She must have been crying a great deal for her soft blue eyes were washed out And they looked through red rims at him with an expression of violent revolt

Please forgive me he said in his smoothest voice regarding her with eloquent eyes filled with contrition Your landlady told me to come up

Laurie stood with her back to her quaint old dormer window on the ledge of which flourished geraniums and cherry pie She was a figure of icy dignity and looked extraordinarily young

I don't know why you should want to see me Mr Albery Laurie said I have nothing to say

But I have something to say he retorted And it will be worth your while to listen to me I am very sorry about yesterday I was clumsy and stupid and I don't wonder I offended you It was altogether a mistake But now I want to talk to you about Rex Moore

There was no disturbing note in his voice It was almost business like It was certainly deeply respectful and very friendly

* * *

The mention of Rex Moore's name decided Laurie

What have you to say Mr Albery? she asked coldly And in what way do you mean that the unpardonable things you said to me yesterday were a mistake?

I misjudged you For you to understand me I must explain that I know you are not married to Rex Moore

Her knees gave way and she sank into a chair

You know—that? How?

A young blackmailing journalist came and told me He had been making inquiries out in Australia and there was no record of a marriage between you I saw at once that he had some grudge against Moore I bought him off because I didn't want any gossip about Moore but I paid him to make more inquiries You are not married to Rex Moore are you? Unless of course you have married him since he came back?

She shook her head She couldn't speak

So you see there was a slight excuse for me Laurie as you had been living with Rex Moore as his wife without being married to him—

She gave a cry

What do you mean? You knew this and you never said a word to either of us What do you think?

My dear girl what is there to think? I suppose you had been fond of each other in Australia and when you thought he was dead you passed yourself off as his widow And when he came back—well you were very glad to see him again and carried on

You are all wrong Laurie cried almost choking with indignation I will tell you the truth—not because of myself or that I care what you think of me but because he had nothing to do with it at all He did not know me in Australia I never set eyes on him until he came back from America the other day

Mark Albery makes, tomorrow, a terrible threat.

Summer Foods

At this time of the year it is not uncommon to read of severe outbreaks of food poisoning In most instances the cause of trouble can be traced to carelessness in the handling of food substances Faulty refrigeration and exposure of foods to flies insects dust and germs during the summer months are common causes for such disturbances

Modern advertising has called attention to the improved methods of preservation of food In spite of this carelessness still exists and until everyone is aware of this danger and how to prevent it outbreaks of food poisoning will continue to occur Bear in mind that food poisoning only occurs when contaminated or spoiled foods are consumed

Botulism a serious form of food poisoning is caused by a germ called bacillus botulinus When certain foods such as vegetables ripe olives string beans asparagus corn apricots meats and fruits are improperly preserved the germs of botulism may contaminate them Every housewife should be familiar with this danger and most of them are In canning foods it is absolutely essential first to sterilize the preserve jars and then to make sure the canning process is performed properly

During hot weather foodstuffs must be kept in a cool spot and protected from flies and insects This is especially important if they are to be used in canning

Do not be misled by the belief that short time boiling of foodstuffs before canning is sufficient protection against infection If the food has been contaminated before boiling it is probable that the ordinary home methods of canning will not destroy all the germs This is especially true of the germ of botulism

As a rule the victim of botulism complains of intestinal discomfort within twenty four to thirty six hours after eating the contaminated food He has nausea vomiting weakness and prostration In many cases there is some disturbance in the sight

Within a short time the patient complains of a dry and uncomfortable feeling in the throat This may become so severe as to prevent the drinking of fluids It is indeed an alarming symptom In a bad case it is necessary to remove the patient to a hospital where he can be assured of receiving the very best care and modern methods of dealing with the complications of the attack

Let me warn you against careless handling of foodstuffs during the summer months and above all to impress upon you the importance of rigid rules and regulations in all home canning If foods are to be preserved for future use it is imperative that they be thoroughly prepared boiled and placed in previously boiled air tight containers

Moores & Ross Co. Drivers Awarded Safety Plaque

200,000 Miles Covered Without Single Accident

Firm With Branch in Marion Emphasizes Careful and Safe Operating of Trucks

Nearly 200,000 miles without an accident.

That's the record of the 24 drivers of the local branch of Moores & Ross Inc during 1934. For that record Moores & Ross Inc has presented to their local branch a bronze plaque in commemoration for its notable achievement in safe driving during 1934.

The presentation to the local branch was made in accordance with the company's Safe Drivers Award system established Jan 1 1933. In the normal course of their business they are confronted with many problems that must be solved to maintain a high standard of efficiency in their service. None of these problems are of relatively greater importance or more perplexing than those presented by accidents of a character that may cause injuries to the members of their personnel or the public.

In attempting to solve this particular problem the Safe Drivers Award system was established the primary object of which is to recognize outstanding individual or group performance in relation to the safe driving care and maintenance of company vehicles.

The procedure for making awards is as follows. Each driver is issued a Safe Drivers certificate in quarterly periods of each year. Each new certificate specifies the cumulative period of three months or more without a preventable accident. Any driver involved in an accident which could have been prevented by reasonable precautionary measures on his part has his certificate taken from him.

A driver who has operated a vehicle for 12 consecutive months without a preventable accident is presented a sterling silver lapel emblem. A silver lapel emblem with two stars is presented to each driver who completes a two consecutive year period without a preventable accident. A gold lapel emblem is presented for three consecutive years safe driving. A group award is also made to each branch of Moores & Ross Inc attaining the best safety record for a 12 month period.

It is a notable fact that none of the drivers for the local branch of Moores & Ross has even had his Safe Drivers certificate taken from him since the system was established. Some of the drivers have silver lapel emblems for one year and some have the award for two consecutive years safe driving.

The local branch operates a fleet of 24 trucks traveling nearly 200 000 miles yearly and the record they have attained for safe driving is certainly an achievement of great importance and of which they are very proud.

LOS ANGELES POLICE GET 47 NEW BUICKS

Dependable Service of Radio Fleet Creates Record, Dealer Says

FLINT Mich July 29—The result of more than 20 million miles experience with Buicks in the most demanding service the Los Angeles police department has increased its large Buick fleet by 47 1935 models W F Hufstader general sales manager of the Buick Motor Co announced today.

Seven of these new cars sold by the Howard Automobile Co of Los Angeles are Model 67 S for use of the police department's executive staff while the remaining 40 Model 47 carry on the work of retiring Buicks in the radio division.

The record of Buick in the Los Angeles police department is outstanding Mr Hufstader said. The police archives reveal thrilling chases sensational captures battles with floods races with death and swift response in the protection of life and property over a city area of 440 square miles. In the department statistics are written the records of high mileage low operation costs and uninterrupted 24 hour service month after month.

The first Buicks were purchased by the department in 1923. The original order for three cars grew to fleet proportions as time passed and Buick performance and dependability established the desirability of this make. In the spring of 1931 41 Buicks were purchased from the Howard organization to inaugurate the department's radio patrol. Later this number was increased to 50. Within 24 months after the beginning of the radio activities the fleet had covered 6 142 477 miles and answered 202 400 broadcasted calls in an average of two minutes and 40 seconds.

The cars were placed immediately in unbroken 24 hour service being driven by three shifts of officers the same gruelling schedule that was followed by the succeeding fleet of 53 Buicks that took over the work. The latter cars which in turn are being succeeded by the new Buicks have piled up approximately six million miles with some of the individual cars having a record of more than 140 000 miles.

An exceptionally low cost per mile is shown by the police records. These are as low as one and three tenths cents per mile over a distance of 135 000 miles. The highest cost according to the department tabulations was two and one tenth cents per mile for a car totalling 60 951 miles of service.

The totals of the radio fleets added to that of the numerous other Buicks in long service in the department bring the whole distance well over the twenty million mark.

Little Bazaar Offers Sale of Men's Supplies

Wide Variety of Essentials for Shavers Being Sold at Low Prices

The Little Bazaar located at 146 North Main street is now having a mid summer sale on men's shaving supplies tooth paste and hair tonic. The values now being offered should be given consideration by every man.

Mr Tate the proprietor believes he has the best values in razor blades in Marion. Blades for Gem Everready and Gillette type razors can be purchased for 10c per package or four packages for 30c. Each package contains four blades. A 10c Styptic pencil is given free with the purchase of four packages. Blades for Auto Strop razors are selling at 15c per package or two packages for 25 cents. As a special introductory offer only for a new blade he is now selling Mr Tate will sell them for one cent each. The blades come in a package of six blades for six cents.

Shavers who use cream instead of soap should not miss the special price on shaving cream during this sale. A bay rum cream that is cooling and soothing to the face and which if used no after shaving lotion being needed. You can purchase a large tube of this excellent cream that is a regular 35 cent value for the low price of only 15 cents.

If you have never tried H R H hair tonic you should take this opportunity to buy a bottle while it is being offered at the low price of 25 cents. The regular price of H R H hair tonic is 60 cents.

Mr Tate also is selling for 25 cents Lilac Vegetal a regular 60 cent value after shave lotion. This lotion will satisfy any shaver because of its soothing action and pleasing odor. D D S a milk of magnesia tooth paste a giant size of which regularly sells at 35 cents is being offered at only 15 cents during this sale.

Mr Tate also states that he gives a money back guarantee with everything he sells. Readers should take advantage of this mid summer sale and save themselves money.

Studio Provides Artistry in All Photo Services

Dale Hughes at Bauer Shop Provides Distinctive Pictures.

Many are acquainted with the Bauer Studio located at 126½ South Main street and now being operated by Dale Hughes. Here a most complete line of cameras, kodaks in many styles and amateur photographer supplies are kept in stock as well as all types of film and supplies for all makes of cameras.

Amateur work is of special interest to Mr Hughes. He never misses a chance to help all persons who leave films for him to develop. His years of experience make it possible for him to give advice which if followed will make snapshots or more difficult indoor exposures result in excellent pictures. To those more advanced in photography his skill is especially appreciated.

Commercial work makes up a big portion of the photographs made by Mr Hughes. Photographs that seem impossible are turned out perfectly. This is possible due to the fine and extensive equipment kept by Mr Hughes.

Besides commercial photography, Mr Hughes specializes in portraits of both adults and babies. He was chosen by the American Legion auxiliary to take all pictures of the babies entered in their baby festival held recently and anyone who saw those pictures will testify to their excellence.

In taking a picture Mr Hughes always strives to make more than just a good picture. He strives to make a picture that is both good and yet just a little different than the ordinary type of a good picture. An evidence of this fact is a very unusual picture he made recently of the newly completed Chime Tower at Forest Glen and which can be seen in the office window of Forest Glen at 127 South State street. The picture was made at night and gives an effect of bright moonlight shining on the tower.

Mr Hughes is equipped to make just about any type of a picture including aerial photography and he guarantees satisfaction in every picture.

CALEDONIA PICNIC PLANS CHANGED

Special to The Star

CALEDONIA July 29 — The monthly meeting and picnic of Deborah Rebekah Friendship circle will be held at the home of Miss Mary Brocklesby west of town tomorrow instead of at the home of Mrs Jay Baird in Marion.

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday July 30

A RATHER eventful day but one calling for extremely careful management is read from the prevailing planetary directions. It is probable that important changes of far reaching and radical effect must be decided upon and these may have an element of intrigue or subtlety calling for great acumen and wise counsel. This may be had from combinings secret bodies or through undercover sources of advice and information. Employment is involved and the mind may be slow to grasp certain intricacies that menace.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a very eventful year calling for all their wisdom sagacity and keen judgment in rendering important decisions. Wise counsel may be had from secret sources and these may assist a perplexed state of mind. Unsettled intriguing and subtle affairs challenge prudence.

A child born on this day may have a restless, unsettled and adventurous career with an intriguing or subtle insight into peculiar problems or experiences. Notable nativity Henry Ford, automobile magnate.

Sunshine Blues

ALONG about this time of the year we begin to get sun conscious. Last winter, remember, we longed for weather like this—honestly believed a real sunburn would be a thing of beauty and a joy forever! Now we're looking forward to the season when the thermometer will go down and down.

Strange? Not at all! One of our basic characteristics is desire for change. And your newspaper is dedicated to the daily satisfaction of this human need. Each day it is as new as that day's sunrise. Each day it is full of surprising things.

And nothing in it is newer in appeal or in opportunity than the advertisements. They are filled with facts about all the things you want today and will be wanting tomorrow. Always changing, to keep up with your own eternal desire for change, the advertisements in this newspaper are guide posts to happier living. Read them regularly—they offer opportunities you should not miss.
